

THE GLEICHEN CALL

VOLUME XXVIII

NO. 47

GLEICHEN, ALBERTA, WEDNESDAY FEBRUARY 5, 1936

SUBSCRIPTION $2.00 PER YEAR

POOR ATTENDANCE ANNUAL MEETING OF RATEPAYERS

The annual meeting of the rate payers of Gleichen last Friday was not very well attended. W. Robinson acted as chairman.

The first report was the health of the town which was reported as satisfactory. There was not one case of an infectious or a contagious disease reported. The government sanitary inspector had not visited the town. The ravine running through the town had been cleaned out during the summer so that no decaying matter was laying there to help breed disease.

The sidewalks had been repaired where needed and many improvements made. Many low places in the streets had been filled with earth taken from near the rink. The government grader had scarified the street at a cost of $30. The Board of Trade had again supplied trees in the spring, all of which had been planted.

The irrigation report was next. There were a few leaks in the main in the spring when the water was first turned on but were fixed up in short order. The system had given very satisfactory service all season. A life guard was maintained at the lake during the time the water was there. He looked after the bath house, kept the grounds clean. Trees were also planted there and looked after by the public works department during the summer.

The water works report was next read by the secretary. A new pump suit had been installed during the year and attached to the old well. It was giving such good satisfaction that the old pump motor had been discarded and a new motor for the big well obtained. There was a plentiful supply of water available all the time. A new building was built over the old well and is now used as a store room and work shop. Lumber from the old camp house had been used for this. A survey of the water and sewer system had been made by C. C. Flanche and the plans are on file. Rates for water remain the same, with a minimum charge of $3 per month. There were 38 users and six are not in use, either cut off or the houses vacant.

The next report relief and health. The health of the town had been good. There were now five people receiving old age pensions. There were two men at Eventide Home during the year chargeable to the town, and one was still there. There had been five families on relief all year. There are now nine families on government relief. Seven families are on relief in town and two families in Calgary. The monthly bill was now $176.00. The government share is 58 and a third while our share is 41 and two thirds. Munroe case is still a debt due by the town and the government is demanding payment at the rate of 25 per cent each year until paid. The McDonald and Thorburn hospital bills have been arranged for with the City of Calgary. $204 paid in 1935 and the balance this year.

Fire report. Some houses had been bought and the fire hall had been looked after and apparatus ready at all times. There were only two fires during the year.

Light and power. A new agreement had been signed for a period of ten years and the terms were about the same as the old agreement. If any reductions in charges are made elsewhere Gleichen will automatically benefit by it.

The revenue from the dog tax was very small considering the number of dogs running around town. It was explained that a number of dog owners had agreed to pay their dog taxes by Dec. 31st but had failed to do so.

Mayor J. E. Ostrander gave a report and stated he was disappointed at the small crowd who had turned out to the meeting. This was the taxpayers meeting and the attendance would indicate that either they did not care or else they were satisfied with the way the town was run. Most of what he had to say had been taken up in the various reports. During the year debt payments of $2,068.57 was made on the system. This is the only delinquent payment outstanding and there are six more payments to be made. Tax collections had not been as good as in 1934. Collections on school account had been poor this year, this was partly ac-

NO NOMINATIONS FOR NEW COUNCILLORS

Monday was nomination day for councillors but apparently nobody wants the job since none were nominated. The councillors whose term were up are Messrs W. E. Thompson, A. F. MacCallum and Don McDonald. Returning Officer M. Murray will no doubt arrange to appoint councillors to fill the vacancies or he may call an election. If the minister decides to appoint councillors he will call for a list of tax payers and from that select the new members.

For school trustees Messrs W. Ferguson and P. Warner were re-elected for another two year term. John Boyd was elected to finish the balance of C. W. Harrison's term, one year. The other two trustees are Dr. Farquharson, chairman, and O. Lindquist.

HOCKEY

Friday night the Calgary Hawks played here in what was probably the best game so far this season. It was the exhibition of hockey and clean play, there being no penalties. The Hawks were the first to score in the last when J. Kromm got the puck in wild scramble in front of the Gleichen net and lifted it in. Kromm has a finger in all three goals made by the Hawks. Gleichen applied pressure and were rewarded with a couple of shots before the end of the period. Sub Brown scoring on a fine play from Lester. The next counter was by Lester from his brother Eugene. He play was mostly in centre ice and both teams were careful. The Guns showing that they were the faster skaters and better players.

The second period was not many seconds old when J. Kromm got the second goal for the Hawks on a pass on his brother E. Cronan. Gleichen tried to control, although they were a close frequently but the goals started them. This ended the second with the score tied.

In the last period Gleichen made 2 punters in a row. The first when Carney and S. Langford combined in a splendid play with the former scoring. With about a minute to go and the Hawks putting on the pressure by minding all up but one, Bob Brown took away and getting up to the ditty defence man, passed to Lester who scored. With about three seconds to go Weisner took a pass from J. Kromm to score. So ended the game 4-3 in favor of the home club. This period was the best of all with both teams putting on plenty of speed. On the night's play the Guns were the better players. They got in close on numerous occasions repeatedly tested the Hawks' goalie. Not so the Hawks the play was kept well away from the Gleichen goal mouth.

The Bassano Juniors played Old Sun here Saturday afternoon and resulted in a win for the latter team 9-2. The Old Sun boys seem to play better hockey as the game progressed and always make more goals in the second and third periods. They are entered in the Juvenile playoffs for the province.

The Clancy Junior Hockey boys defeated a Gleichen squad here Saturday 3-2. The teams put up a real exhibition of hockey which was very interesting to watch.

Last Wednesday the Gunners defeated Calgary Garbuts 16-5, which was the biggest score ever made by the Gunners. It was a field night for them. Every player on the Gunner lineup, with the exception of Goalie Wilson, either scored or assisted.

GLEICHEN UNITED CHURCH

Rev. J. N. Wilkinson, minister. Mrs. H. Birch, choir leader. Miss Jean Farquharson, pianist. 11 a.m. Church School. 7:30 p.m. Public Worship. "Covenantalness and its Consequences." The sermon is a character study of a king and queen and the men who today would constitute the parliament. The conduct of each of these parties and the underlying causes of their actions form a very interesting and suggestive study. The public is cordially invited to this service.

ANNUAL BONSPIEL ATTRACTED MUCH ATTENTION

The bonspiel finally came to an end Monday when the final games were played. There were 23 rinks entered and from the beginning intense interest was displayed by the large number of people who followed the play from beginning to end.

Bert Read skipping a local rink captured the Calgary Power prize. On his rink were A. Guttrath lead; P. Kelly second and B. James third. This game attracted much interest since Simpson's rink has an enviable reputation. Reid's score was 12 and Simpsons 9. At the 12th end neither skip played their ricks. The other rink winning in this competition were, T. H. Beach third and Pirates of Arrowwood fourth.

In the Shoptite competition Simpson defeated McCulloch of Arrowwood for first, while McDonald was third and W. Jeffers fourth.

Birks prize was won by Beattie of Cluny when he defeated Dr. Scott of Innisnew. Rev. House was third and J. J. Robinson fourth.

Simpson, whose rink consisted of J. Laws, Gayford and Plummer, won the grand aggregate.

The local lady curlers will hold their bonspiel this coming Friday and Saturday. They are expecting two rinks from Arrowwood, two from Strathmore and one from Cluny.

LADIES SOCIAL GROUP HAVE MEETING

Mrs. John Wilson was hostess to Meadowbrook Social Credit Ladies Group. After the roll call the Current Events were read and Mr. Geo. Bell gave a talk on the Perfect Circle. Miss Ruth McMillan sang, after which a delicious luncheon was served.

On Friday evening, February 7th, Mrs. Fred Hamar will hold a social evening and all members of the Group and friends of the district are cordially invited to attend.

SKATING CARNIVAL BY UNITED CHURCH MUCH ENJOYED

The carnival staged at the rink last Thursday evening by the ladies of the United Church proved to be a very successful affair. With fancy costumes races, fancy skating and a comic hockey game there was plenty of action and the crowd was entertained for almost two hours. This was the first carnival held for some years. There was a surprisingly large number of fancy dress costumes and the crowd got many a laugh from their antics. Interperated between the different events were exhibitions of fancy skating given by skaters from Calgary who delighted the crowd by their ability on the blades.

Following is a list of the prize winners in the different events:

FIRE RETARDANT WOOD CHEMISTRY'S LATEST

Coinciding with the statement of United States builders and insurance men that the United States fire losses for 1935 amounted to 10,000 human lives and cost $245,000,000, comes a report from the National Board of Fire Underwriters containing an assurance that there is such a thing as fire-retardant wood. The wood tested by the Board was red oak and maple which had been thoroughly and uniformly impregnated in pressure tanks containing ammonium salts, a fireproofing compound which, it is not only generally known, has actually been prebared in Canada for at least two years. This treated wood is almost the same in appearance as ordinary wood but is a little heavier because of the salt content. It is easily toolled and takes varnish well.

The investigators of the board tested the treated wood under conditions that sent untreated walls and floors roaring up in flames while the treated wood did not burn at all but after a long period of exposure to the fierce heat was deeply charred. Not once, however, did the treated wood flame or aid the spread of combustion. The National Board of Fire Underwriters' final verdict was that the wood was non-flammable.

Don't Guess But Know

Whether the "Pain" Remedy You Use is SAFE?

Don't Entrust Your Own or Your Family's Well-Being to Unknown Preparations

THE person to ask whether the preparation you or your family are taking for the relief of headaches is SAFE to use regularly is your family doctor. Ask him particularly about "ASPIRIN."

He will tell you that before the discovery of "Aspirin" most "pain" remedies were advised against by physicians as bad for the stomach and, often, for the heart. Which is food for thought if you seek quick, safe relief.

Scientists rate "Aspirin" among the fastest methods yet discovered for the relief of headaches and the pains of rheumatism, neuritis and neuralgia. And the experience of millions of users has proved it safe for the average person to use regularly. In your own interest remember this:

"Aspirin" Tablets are made in Canada. "Aspirin" is the registered trade-mark of the Bayer Company, Limited. Look for the name Bayer in the form of a cross on every tablet.

FLEMING'S FOLLY

— BY —
LAWRENCE A. KEATING

SYNOPSIS

The story opens with Link Fleming addressing a meeting of Boone County cattlemen, called together with the object of forming an irrigation company.

Roper Kilgo, the boss of the lawless and nearby ranges, who seemed to approve the plan, but was opposed to it, had forced Soak Torney, a derelict mining engineer, whom Kilgo knew would be called upon to give his expert opinion in favor of the scheme, to reverse his earlier endorsement, and declare that irrigation in Boone county so far as Hamilton's plan was concerned, was only a wasteful way to waste money.

The meeting terminates, but Buzz Hamilton and his sister, Helen, Link and Kilgo stay behind and Helen asks Fleming questions about his irrigation plan. This angers Buzz, who accuses Fleming of trying to influence his sister and, as he asserts, ruin his "spread". Buzz shoots at Fleming in an uncontrollable fit of anger, but Buster Townsend, Link's foreman, is shot in the stomach, and Fleming is injured. Buzz is arrested. The doctor attends Townsend and dresses his wound. Kilgo tries to take Helen to his home, but she refuses and Fleming escorts her home instead. This incident causes Roper to declare open hostility to Fleming. Helen and Fleming form a partnership to provide irrigation for their own properties. Link goes home, and is surprised to find Kilgo there ahead of him. Kilgo tries to induce Link to drop his scheme, and when Fleming refuses, gives a signal by taking off his hat, and Link is shot at from outside the house. Link kicks Kilgo out of the house. Buzz Hamilton is sentenced to three years' imprisonment for shooting Bud Townsend. On his way home after the trial of Buzz was over, Link meets Soak Torney, who starts telling Fleming why he withdrew his approval of the water scheme. Just as he was about to tell the name of the man who had forced him to do so, Torney is shot and killed by a rifle bullet. Link hunts around to find the killer, but finds nothing. He comes across Jackpot Mell watering his horse, and Jackpot warns Fleming that if he wished to live he had better leave the district.

(Now Go On With The Story)

He gave up the search. "I'm obliged about the land. It's going to be worth a good deal more than you and Kilgo thought. Jackpot," he went on slowly, his brown eyes travelling over the man's light figure, "you could have killed Torney, and you wouldn't have turned a hair doing it. I have a hunch somebody made him talk like he did at the meeting. In fact, Soak told me so. Well," he ended, turning away, "I've got to mosey."

"Hold on," Mell's sallow countenance wore its accustomed look of dazed decision but there was a brittle edge to his tone. "Link, you ought to quit these parts. Runnin' a place in town like mine, a man overhaars things."

"I see. Just a friendly tip, eh?" "Shore!" He always got on good enough with him, not the kind to keep him to my friends. Seems like I can't remember who I heard talkin'!" He frowned, then winked. "I've been lots of different places in my time. Found out it's mighty good to get it elsewhere before trouble busts out."

"I never did own any baggage, Jackpot," was the drawled reply. "By the way, when you get to town tell the sheriff there's a corpse here for him to see."

Mell shrugged, then strode to his horse and mounted. He did not so much as glance back, but urged his roan along the spring bed in the direction of the road. Link followed along, watching until the man disappeared toward Ravidge.

He searched another half hour for tracks or some clue to the identity of Soak's killer. There was none. Hearing hoof-beats, he stepped out of the trees onto the road. To his surprise it was Honest John Mulrooney he saw, and Marty Bush, instead of the sheriff.

They pulled up. "Who's lyin' there?" "Soak Torney. He and I were talkin' and somebody shot him. I haven't found out yet who did it."

Bush dismounted. "Do you know why?"

He nodded. "Torney hasn't been seen since the meeting you know. He stopped out of the trees and stopped me. Started to say who scared him into going against the irrigation scheme at the last minute. Soak was all for it before, but somebody scared him into talkin' like he did. It looks kind of queer."

He broke off as Sheriff Stephen and the shorter, pudgier figure of Coroner Ed. Sproggins rounded the bend, seated in a buckboard. They drew up and climbed out. Ames went at once to the man who lay on his side in the road. He pursed his lips, stood up eyeing Fleming, then walked slowly toward him. "I'm sprised yore hangin' around, Link. After killin' a man most guys light out."

Astonishment swept over the Star Loop owner's face. He stared blankly at Stephen, then looked with puzzled uncertainty at Bush and Mulrooney. "You mean," he demanded at last, incredulously, "you think I killed Soak?"

The other grunted. "We got word you did. Where's the rifle? Had plenty of time to get rid of it, of course."

Sproggins nodded to this. The cattle agent and Mulrooney looked startled as they drew nearer. "Sheriff, if Mell told you I killed Torney, he lies!"

Stephen jerked at his strangely grey mustache. "Oh, Jackpot's a smooth liar, all right. But I reckoned you'd say that. Self-defense, wasn't it?" "I didn't shoot him at all. Soak stepped out of the trees as I rode along. He started to tell me who made him back down on the irrigation scheme at the meeting the other day. Before he got it out he was shot. I went after the fellow but found Mell watering his horse at the spring. He claimed he didn't do it—and I couldn't find a rifle on him or anywhere around."

"Do you think I'd hang around here, waiting for you if I killed Soak? If it was self-defense, I'd ride for you myself. If it was murder, I'd be miles away by now."

Silence fell. "That's yore story, eh?" Ames reached at his hip pocket and drew out a pair of goggles. "First I'll take that skunk, Fleming. Yore yarn sounds weak to me. Had plenty cause to want Soak dead, didn't yuh? So yuh could maybe talk ranchers into the waterin' scheme?" So long as he was around the main authority on it, yuh couldn't make much headway. I'll have to take yuh in, Link."

Impulse assailed him to whip out his weapon and hold the sheriff at bay until he could make a swift escape. But he stifled this. It would brand him with the appearance of guilt. He was wholly innocent: the proper thing to do was to insist on that.

Stephen was stretching out his hands with the manacles when John Mulrooney uttered a dry chuckle and stepped close. "Who says Link killed Torney, Sheriff?"

"Jackpot Mell. Claims he hadda gift for dear life on his back got it too. Says he met Soak, who told him Link kept him prisoner, but he got away. Jackpot didn't know till Link shot that he followed 'em here."

The cattlemen grinned and shook his head. "Ever hear of Mell runnin' from a gangbait?" "H'm. No, never did." "Guess Jackpot keeps too late hours," Mulrooney drawled. "Works on a man's brain like the tremors. Why, this killin' couldn't have happened that way. Ames not with Marty and me knowin'." We been with Link the last hour.

"Well, I believe in it, boys," Bush expounded tobacco juice. "Buzz doesn't, though. If Helen goes in with yuh like I hear yore persuadin' her to, folks'll say yore Buzz put away so she could manage their spread."

Link looked sharply at the cattle agent. "Folks would gossip about sunshine if there was nothing better. That wouldn't concern me. We aim to go through with this thing. I've set on it, sure it will work."

They shook their heads. "There'll be opposition, Link. Like this Soak Torney affair. And that shootin' the other night. Was Kilgo out on a friendly call, or what?"

The lawman stiffened, uttering an exclamation. Even the unemotional Sproggins blinked and slowly shifted his gaze to Bush.

"Been with him an hour?" "Have we, Marty, or not?"

The cattle agent struck a match on his boot sole. "Of course." Fortunately, Stephen was not looking at Link at the moment, so that he had time to master the amazement that rippled over his tanned face. When Ames scowled back his expression was calm, uninformative.

"Huh! You claim that too?" "Might as well, Sheriff. It gets me out of a jam, doesn't it?"

A piercing look was the answer. "Come on, Ames, forget this. It was just a little joke on Mell's part, reckon." Marty urged. "Why, Fleming, isn't it a killer? And like he said, it's unreasonable to suppose that if he did shoot Torney, he would wait around an hour for you to come."

Stephen removed his hat and scratched his head. "All right," he decided with irritated reluctance. "You can go, Link. But dang it, I'm goin' to look into this plumb thorough! Willin' to swear yuh didn't have a rifle along to-day?"

"I am."

"And you don't know how Torney got killed?" "Haven't any idea as to the killer or no."

"H'm. I ain't satisfied, by a dumb sight. Might hear from me later."

Reluctantly, but trying to keep betrayal of that fact from his face, Fleming sought his horse. A moment later he rode off with Bush and Mulrooney. When they were out of earshot he faced them.

"Well, what made you do it? Do you know who shot Soak from here, Link; who did?"

"Course not! But look here, 'Haven't any idea, Marty. Don't even know why Jackpot should want suspicion on me. Why should he try to put me away like Buzz, and maybe for a longer time."

Honest John looked troubled. "Yore too believin' in folks, yuh, any dog with a sore foot can tell when it's hard walkin'." Guess you can't, though. Uh—Marty and I figured yuh shot a killer, so we led to Ames. Ain't sorry, neither. But . . ."

"Speak up, John. Both of you have something on your minds. I can see that plain enough."

"They exchanged looks. 'Yeah, eh?' Link said that promise I made in meetin' to go along with yuh on this irrigation?"

"Sure. Bush spoke up too. I'm mighty glad yuh aren't scared of the plan, like all the rest of these old-fashioned cow prodgers. Why, there wouldn't be progress if everyone—"

"Wait, will yuh?" Mulrooney shifted uncomfortably in his saddle and stared into the distance. "That's what I'm gettin' at. Yuh see, my old woman's been sick a long time. And I had trouble with my steers when that spring went dry, and what with one thing and another, I'm hard up. Mind if I pull out of yore scheme?"

"Me too—if yuh don't mind, Link." Bush put in.

Silence. "I understand, boys," he said quietly. "Yuh backed me in the meetin' just for effect. For effect. For friendship's sake. Like yuh lied to Sheriff Stephen, because yuh didn't want to see me in trouble. That's it?"

"You feel like the others, that irrigation is some crazy modern scheme for wastin' money. I'm grateful for your backing," he said sincerely as he strove to conceal his disappointment. "I surey am. You did me a good turn both times."

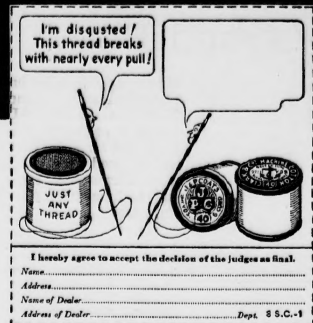

"Aw, Link, yuh oughtn't to go into this water scheme. Why, everybody thinks yore plumb loco!" They neared the fork in the road where Bush and Mulrooney would turn off. The sudden sky was going a deeper grey, yielding slowly to night. The wind had sharpened to a brittle keenness and snow continued to fall in a steady, melancholy swirl. The Star Loop owner stopped his horse.

"I believe in it, boys," Bush expounded tobacco juice. "Buzz doesn't, though. If Helen goes in with yuh like I hear yore persuadin' her to, folks'll say yore Buzz put away so she could manage their spread."

Link looked sharply at the cattle agent. "Folks would gossip about sunshine if there was nothing better. That wouldn't concern me. We aim to go through with this thing. I've set on it, sure it will work."

They shook their heads. "There'll be opposition, Link. Like this Soak Torney affair. And that shootin' the other night. Was Kilgo out on a friendly call, or what?"

The Queen's Bridesmaids

Eight Attendants Out of Original Ten Are Still Living

Although 42 years have passed since the late King and Queen were married, Princess Victoria was only the second of Princess Mary of Teck's ten bridesmaids to pass away. To be sure, most of them were very young, some were children, at the time. With the exception of Princess Victoria and her cousin, Princess Helen Victoria, all of them are married. The now only surviving sister of the bridegroom, that summer day—which was also Princess Victoria's 25th birthday—Queen Maud of Norway. Of the three Princesses of Edinburgh one married into Spain, one into Russia, one into Germany. Princess Margaret of Connaught, dead these fifteen years, became Crown Princess of Sweden; Princess Eda of Battenberg is ex-Queen of Spain. Princess Alice of Albany and Princess Patricia of Connaught married at home, becoming Countess of Athlone and Lady Patricia Ramsay respectively.

Star Mouth-Organ Players

Band Of Ten Use 250 Instruments Each Week

A man who carries with him 1,500 mouth-organs arrived recently in London.

He is Borrah Minevitch, and his band of ten of the world's star mouth-organ players which opened at the Pictured Theatre of varieties, uses 250 instruments each week. Mr. Minevitch who earns £700 a week, was a newsboy in Boston, Mass., when he first played a mouth-organ to amuse his customers. He claims that since then he has increased the sales of the instruments by more than 22,000,000 a year.

These hard times do hit some people hard. Canadians were able to spend only $56,000,000 for new passenger cars during the first six months of 1935, says the Farmers' Advocate.

Children's Colds Should Have This Safe Treatment

Young Mothers Benefit from Two Generations' Proof of This External Treatment For Fighting Colds.

IT AVOIDS CONSTANT "DOSING"

There's nothing like a child's cold to upset a mother. It's the risk of constant "dosing," so often upsetting to children's delicate digestions. Just rubbed on throat and chest at bedtime, VapoRub acts five ways:

1. By stimulation through the skin, like a poultice or plaster—
2. By inhalation of its penetrating medicated vapors, released by body heat and breathed in direct to inflamed air-passages.

Continuing through the night, this combined vapor-poultice action keeps the child's throat and chest membranes—causes difficult breathing—helps break congestion.

A Practical Guide for Mothers. Each year more and more families are being helped to ease colds and shorter colds by Vicks VapoRub. Vicks VapoRub has been clinically tested by practicing physicians, and further proved in every home use by millions. Full details of the Plan in each package of Vicks VapoRub.

Ltd., are staging a splendid guessing contest, the prize for the winners being $50 in cash. $10 for first and $10 for second. This contest will interest the whole district, as the prize is a very valuable one. Full particulars are being announced this week. The firm predict a splendid response to this contest for February business. Get busy with your guesses. Every purchase of a stated amount will be good for a guess in the contest. BLACKFOOT M. D.

COUNCILLORS IN REGULAR SESSION

The first council meeting for this year of the Blackfoot Municipality with all the councillors in attendance was held.

Mr. Nelson, a member of the Gleichen-Clary Mutual Telephone Co. Ltd., asked permission for the use of the municipal office for the purpose of holding a meeting of the telephone company. The councillors granted the request.

The committee appointed at the last meeting, Reeve Thorsen, reported that he had met the Calgary Hospital authorities and arranged to settle the $307.95 account for the sum of $215 subject to the approval of the council. The councillors were in favor of a settlement at this figure and ordered that the account be paid.

Councillor Nelson had the following motion carried: That in view of the Dominion government grant to the province of Alberta for relief purposes being increased that this council request that the share borne by municipalities be reduced and that a copy of this resolution be forwarded to Premier Aberhart and to the provincial secretary.

The council also decided to notify the Department of Agriculture that the municipality is not financially able to assume the responsibility of the distribution of feed, fodder or tractor fuel and that the financial responsibility and distribution be assumed by the provincial government as in previous years.

The meeting closed at 8:30 after being in session five hours.
